Business Management BA

(including foundation year)

About this course

Gain an in-depth understanding of contemporary business with this innovative Business Management degree. With an emphasis on developing knowledge and insights of how this can be integrated within wider situations, you will become equipped with vital business skills and have the opportunity to put them into practice in both traditional and virtual settings.

The overall aim of the course is to deliver a contemporary and dynamic programme of study that provides you with the knowledge and skills inherent in the subject to prepare you for a career in business management.

Why study with London Metropolitan University?

- Study in the heart of London
- Small and personal class sizes
- Evening and weekend study option available
- Careers and ACE (Academic Community of Excellence) teams available for advice and support

What you'll study

During your foundation year you will engage with business challenges in a stimulating environment, while boosting your confidence and acquiring crucial academic skills. This acts as excellent preparation for your subsequent three years of study, which will allow you to specialise in more specific and advanced areas of business.

Once you have completed the foundation year you will study a range of modules including The Business Environment, Business Decision Making, Leadership and Leading, Strategy: Choice and Change, as well as have the chance to develop a business plan and complete a research project (dissertation). In addition you will undertake personal and academic skills.
