I feel like I chose the best university in London because the support, the quality of study and everything I have achieved here is just beyond my expectations. It was so unprecedented and unparalleled. I'm so grateful to Ulster University for giving me the chance and for helping me with everything.

Coming from a different country was a bit of culture shock because it's totally different from how I used to be with people, but it changed me and it gave me a lot of confidence. I think it will change you as a person overall because I discovered things that I don't know before that I can do now.
